Veterans Day

On Nov. 11, Veteran's Day, we honor all the brave men and women who have served in the United States military. It is not to be confused with Memorial Day, which is to remember those who made the ultimate sacrifice. On Veterans Day, federal offices are closed as well as many private businesses. Many restaurants across the country offer free meals to veterans. Discounts are available to veterans nationwide. But how many of us know the history of Veterans Day? Here are some important and interesting facts about this significant day.

- It was originally called Armistice Day

Hostilities in World War I ended at the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of 1918 when the Armistice, or peace agreement, with Germany went into effect. Armistice Day began as a celebration recognizing the victory of the allied forces of WWI. It was renamed Veterans Day by President Dwight Eisenhower in 1954 and is now dedicated to veterans of all wars.

- Arlington National Cemetery holds an annual service

The cemetery, just across the Potomac River from Washington D.C., is home to the graves of over 400,000 military personnel and their families. A National Veterans Day Ceremony is held at 11 a.m. each Nov. 11. During the commemoration, guards lay a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and veterans organizations hold a parade of colors. The ceremony is free and open to the public.

- The New York City parade is the oldest in the country

The New York City Veterans Day Parade takes place along Fifth Avenue. It is both the largest and oldest Veterans Day parade in the country. The first one was held in 1919.

World Pneumonia Day

The theme for World Pneumonia Day 2024 is "Championing the fight to stop pneumonia". World Pneumonia Day is held annually on November 12 to raise awareness of pneumonia and promote prevention and treatment. In support of World Pneumonia Day, NFID and the American Lung Association are working to raise awareness about pneumococcal disease and encourage those who are at risk to talk with a healthcare professional about pneumococcal vaccination.

Here are 3 things to know on World Pneumonia Day:

- Anyone can get pneumonia, but some people are at higher risk. Those who can get very sick with pneumonia include young children, older adults, and people with certain chronic health conditions, including lung disease, heart disease, kidney or liver disease, diabetes, sickle cell disease, or illnesses that weaken the immune system, such as HIV and certain cancers.
- Pneumonia can be serious. Symptoms of pneumonia include fever, chills, cough, shortness of breath, chest pain, or a general feeling of weakness. Complications from pneumonia can include respiratory failure, sepsis, and even death. The death rate is higher among adults age 65 years and older. Early diagnosis and treatment are important for serious pneumococcal infections.
- Vaccines can help prevent pneumonia and protect against pneumococcal disease. Pneumococcal vaccination is recommended for young children, older adults, and those with certain chronic health conditions or other risk factors.

"Pneumonia is serious and can be deadly. When you get your annual flu vaccine or updated COVID-19 vaccine, be sure to ask about pneumococcal vaccines," said NFID Medical Director Robert H. Hopkins, Jr., MD. "Vaccines can help prevent serious diseases and by getting vaccinated as recommended, we can protect ourselves, our families, and our communities."

"Even healthy adults over 65 years are at increased risk for pneumococcal pneumonia, because the body's immune system naturally weakens with age. In addition, unlike seasonal respiratory infections like influenza, pneumococcal pneumonia can happen any time of the year, so it is important for those at greater risk to be protected," said Albert Rizzo, MD, chief medical officer for the American Lung Association. "Fortunately, pneumococcal pneumonia vaccines are available to help prevent the disease."

MEMORY LANE

Once upon a time two little old ladies moved to Dove Estates. And as things happen here, they became friends. For this article they will be referred to as Ms. A and Ms. B. One day we were about to play Bingo in the Overflow Dining Room. Well the ghosts decided to make an appearance and remove the sliding barn door off the track. Both Ms. A and Ms. B were in direct route of the falling barn door. And as things moved along both ended up in the Emergency Room. Now can you just imagine the talk in the ER about these two ladies making an appearance in the ER and both got hit with a barn door? Both have recovered quite nicely, although some people at Dove would question that statement. Hahaha.

Can you guess who these women are?

We celebrated our 5th Anniversary in October. What better way to celebrate than with a Carnival themed party with all of our friends, family and residents.
